

A still life photograph featuring three different cocktails. On the left is a tall, elegant glass filled with a golden, bubbly drink, garnished with a sprig of green mint and two long, thin slices of citrus. In the center is a shorter, wider glass with a textured base, containing an amber-colored drink with a thick white foam head, topped with a slice of citrus and a small red and white striped stirrer. To the right is a small, square glass filled with a dark red liquid and ice cubes. A half-slice of an orange sits on the surface between the central and right glasses. The entire scene is set on a dark, textured surface, possibly a bar or a wooden table, with a warm, out-of-focus background of orange and yellow lights.
